Many school librarians feel as if they are the Copyright Police. At this workshop, you will learn the basics of the copyright law, receive tips towards the development of a school wide copyright policy, as well as discuss how to work within copyright law in the K-12 school environment. Questions that will be answered include: How can you tell teachers they must not show a movie as a treat to their students with out the proper license? How can you teach children ethical use of materials, such as how to request the use of copyrighted material? What are some of the ways that you can borrow/copy materials in the school and still be sure that you are in compliance with copyright law?

If you have specific copyright questions, please submit them to Bev Obert at bevo@rpls.ws by Monday, Feb 26, 2007.

Rebecca Butler of Northern Illinois University will be our speaker. Rebecca is the Associate Professor Educational Technology, Research and Assessment and is the advisor for School Library Media Certification/Endorsement. She holds an MSLS from the University of Kentucky and a PH.D. from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She is the author of Copyright for Teachers and Librarians published by Neal-Schuman in 2004.
